Confederacy of Stars

The Journey Home - First Light - The Aquanauts - Alien Contact - World View

The Confederacy of Stars is a series of simulation experiences that focus on several diverse and meaningful learning outcomes. Each can be delivered as a stand-alone event or in any combination to create a powerful series that will send participants into orbit!

Participants are plunged into an exhilarating galaxy one thousand years in the future. They face challenges and choices designed to bring them face-to-face with their own abilities as leaders, managers and team members. Together they strategize, plan and act. They face the consequences of their choices--without the real-world consequences of failure--in a fun, creative and sometimes stressful experience. Participants take risks, enjoy, learn and take a quantum leap forward in their own development.

The Confederacy of Stars simulations have been run with groups ranging in size from eight participants to over one thousand. Our clients consistently rate our simulations as among the best learning programs. The entire series of five simulations or a single simulation can be woven into your existing event to provide a highly experiential process that will bring your learning objectives to life.

The Confederacy of Stars provides participants with an engaging learning environment based on the elements of today's challenging business and organizational realities. Through a series of simulated worlds that are strangely different and yet interconnected, participants are challenged to develop key managerial, leadership and team-building skills. The value of each of the five experiences is maximized through facilitated group debriefings. Participants draw key insights from their experiences, which are applicable to real-life situations.
